1 2 Rule 4.300. Commitments to nonpenal institutions [Repealed] 3 4 When a defendant is convicted of a crime for which sentence could be imposed under 5 Penal Code section 1170 and the court orders that he or she be committed to the 6 California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, Division of Juvenile Justice 7 under Welfare and Institutions Code section 1731.5, the order of commitment must 8 specify the term of imprisonment to which the defendant would have been sentenced. The 9 term is determined as provided by Penal Code sections 1170 and 1170.1 and these rules, 10 as though a sentence of imprisonment were to be imposed. 11 12 Advisory Committee Comment 13 14 Commitments to the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, Division of Juvenile Justice (formerly Youth Authority) cannot exceed the maximum possible incarceration in an adult 15 16 institution for the same crime. (See People v. Olivas (1976) 17 Cal.3d 236.) 17 18 Under the indeterminate sentencing law, the receiving institution knew, as a matter of law from 19 the record of the conviction, the maximum potential period of imprisonment for the crime of 20 which the defendant was convicted. 21 22 Under the Uniform Determinate Sentencing Act, the court's discretion as to length of term leaves 23 doubt as to the maximum term when only the record of convictions is present. 24 25 Rule 4.405. Definitions 26 27 As used in this division, unless the context otherwise requires: 28 * * * 29 (1) 30 31 (2) "Base term" is the determinate or indeterminate sentence imposed for the 32 commission of a crime, not including any enhancements that carry an additional 33 term of imprisonment. determinate term in prison or county jail under section 34 1170(h) selected from among the three possible terms prescribed by statute; the 35 determinate term in prison or county jail under section 1170(h) prescribed by 36 statute if a range of three possible terms is not prescribed; or the indeterminate term 37 in prison prescribed by statute. 38 39 (3) When a person is convicted of two or more felonies, the "principal term" is the 40 greatest determinate term of imprisonment imposed by the court for any of the 41 crimes, including any term imposed for applicable count-specific enhancements. 42

- When a person is convicted of two or more felonies, the "subordinate term" is the 1 (4) 2 determinate term imposed for an offense, plus any count-specific enhancements 3 applicable to the offense ordered to run consecutively to the principal term. 4 5 (3) (5) "Enhancement" means an additional term of imprisonment added to the base term. 6 7 "Offense" means the offense of conviction unless a different meaning is specified (6) 8 or is otherwise clear from the context. The term "instant" or "current" is used in 9 connection with "offense" or "offense of conviction" to distinguish the violation for which the defendant is being sentenced from an enhancement, prior or subsequent 10 11 offense, or from an offense before another court. 12 13 (4) (7) "Aggravation," or "circumstances in aggravation" "mitigation," or "circumstances 14 in mitigation" means factors that justify the imposition of the upper prison term 15 referred to in Penal Code section 1170(b) and 1170.1, or factors that the court may 16 consider in exercising discretion authorized by statute and under these rules 17 including imposing the middle term instead of a low term, denying probation, 18 ordering consecutive sentences, or determining whether to exercise discretion 19 pursuant to Penal Code section 1385(c). that the court may consider in its broad

21	Following the United States Supreme Court decision in Cunningham v. California (2007) 549
22	U.S. 270, the Legislature amended the determinate sentencing law to remove the presumption that
23	the court is to impose the middle term on a sentencing triad, absent aggravating or mitigating
24	circumstances. (See Sen. Bill 40; Stats. 2007, ch. 3.) It subsequently amended sections 186.22,
25	186.33, 1170.1, 12021.5, 12022.2, and 12022.4 to eliminate the presumptive middle term for an
26	enhancement. (See Sen. Bill 150; Stats. 2009, ch. 171.) Instead of finding facts in support of a
27	sentencing choice, courts are now required to state reasons for the exercise of judicial discretion
28	in sentencing.
29
30	The Legislature amended the determinate sentencing law to require courts to order imposition of
31	a sentence or enhancement not to exceed the middle term unless factors in aggravation justify
32	imposition of the upper term and are stipulated to by the defendant or found true beyond a
33	reasonable doubt at trial by the jury or by the judge in a court trial. (See Sen. Bill 567; Stats.
34	2021, ch. 731.) However, in determining whether to impose the upper term for a criminal offense,
35	the court may consider as an aggravating factor that a defendant has suffered one or more prior
36	convictions, based on certified records of conviction. This exception may not be used to select the
37	upper term of an enhancement.
38
39	The court may exercise its judicial discretion in imposing the middle term or low term and must
40	state the facts and reasons on the record for choosing the sentence imposed. In exercising this
41	discretion between the middle term and the low term, the court may rely on aggravating factors
42	that have not been stipulated to by the defendant or proven beyond a reasonable doubt. ( People v.
43	Black (2007) 41 Cal.4th 799.)

36	Ruie	4.420. Selection of term of imprisonment for offense
37	(a)	When a contained indement of immissionment is invested as the assention of
38	(a)	When a sentence judgment of imprisonment is imposed, or the execution of a
39		sentence judgment of imprisonment is ordered suspended, the sentencing judge
40		must, in their sound discretion, order imposition of a sentence not to exceed the
41		middle term, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b). select the upper, middle, or lower term on each count for which the defendant has been convicted, as provided in section 1170(b) and these rules.

(b) The court may only choose an upper term when (1) there are circumstances in aggravation of the crime that justify the imposition of an upper term, and (2) the facts underlying those circumstances have been (i) stipulated to by the defendant, (ii) found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by a jury, or (iii) found true beyond a reasonable doubt by the judge in a court trial.

(c) Notwithstanding paragraphs (a) and (b), the court may consider the fact of the defendant's prior convictions based on a certified record of conviction without it having been stipulated to by the defendant or found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by a jury or the judge in a court trial. This exception does not apply to the use of the record of a prior conviction in selecting the upper term of an enhancement.

(b) (d) In selecting between the middle and lower terms of imprisonment, exercising his or her discretion in selecting one of the three authorized terms of imprisonment referred to in section 1170(b), the sentencing judge may consider circumstances in aggravation or mitigation, and any other factor reasonably related to the sentencing decision. The court may consider factors in aggravation and mitigation, whether or not the factors have been stipulated to by the defendant or found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by a jury or the judge in a court trial. The relevant circumstances may be obtained from the case record, the probation officer's report, other reports and statements properly received, statements in aggravation or mitigation, and any evidence introduced at the sentencing hearing.

(e) Notwithstanding section 1170(b)(1), and unless the court finds that the aggravating circumstances outweigh the mitigating circumstances such that imposition of the lower term would be contrary to the interests of justice, the court must order imposition of the lower term if any of the following was a contributing factor in the commission of the offense:

(1) The defendant has experienced psychological, physical, or childhood trauma, including, but not limited to, abuse, neglect, exploitation, or sexual violence;

(2) The defendant is a youth, or was a youth as defined under section 1016.7(b) at the time of the commission of the offense; or

(3) Prior to the instant offense, or at the time of the commission of the offense, the defendant is or was a victim of intimate partner violence or human trafficking.

Paragraph (e) does not preclude the court from imposing the lower term even if there is no evidence of the circumstances listed in paragraph (e).

(e) (g) To comply with section 1170(b)(5), a fact charged and found as an enhancement may be used as a reason for imposing a particular term only if the court has discretion to strike the punishment for the enhancement and does so. The use of a fact of an enhancement to impose the upper term of imprisonment is an adequate reason for striking the additional term of imprisonment, regardless of the effect on the total term.

(d) (h) A fact that is an element of the crime on which punishment is being imposed may not be used to impose a particular term.

(e) (i) The reasons for selecting one of the three authorized terms of imprisonment referred to in section 1170(b) must be stated orally on the record.

Advisory Committee Comment

The determinate sentencing law authorizes the court to select any of the three possible terms of imprisonment even though neither party has requested a particular term by formal motion or informal argument. Section 1170(b) vests the court with discretion to impose any of the three authorized terms of imprisonment and requires that the court state on the record the reasons for imposing that term.

It is not clear whether the reasons stated by the judge for selecting a particular term qualify as "facts" for the purposes of the rule prohibition on dual use of facts. Until the issue is clarified, judges should avoid the use of reasons that may constitute an impermissible dual use of facts. For example, the court is not permitted to use a reason to impose a greater term if that reason also is either (1) the same as an enhancement that will be imposed, or (2) an element of the crime. The court should not use the same reason to impose a consecutive sentence as to impose an upper term of imprisonment. (People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 233.) It is not improper to use the same reason to deny probation and to impose the upper term. (People v. Bowen (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 102, 106.)

The rule makes it clear that a fact charged and found as an enhancement may, in the alternative, be used as a factor in aggravation.

People v. Riolo (1983) 33 Cal.3d 223, 227 (and note 5 on 227) held that section 1170.1(a) does not require the judgment to state the base term (upper, middle, or lower) and enhancements, computed independently, on counts that are subject to automatic reduction under the one-third formula of section 1170.1(a).

Even when sentencing is under section 1170.1, however, it is essential to determine the base term and specific enhancements for each count independently, in order to know which is the principal term count. The principal term count must be determined before any calculation is made using the one-third formula for subordinate terms.

In addition, the base term (upper, middle, or lower) for each count must be determined to arrive at an informed decision whether to make terms consecutive or concurrent; and the base term for each count must be stated in the judgment when sentences are concurrent or are fully consecutive (i.e., not subject to the one-third rule of section 1170.1(a)).

Case law suggests that in determining the "interests of justice" the court should consider the constitutional rights of the defendant and the interests of society represented by the people; the defendant's background and prospects, including the presence or absence of a record; the nature and circumstances of the crime and the defendant's level of involvement; the factors in aggravation and mitigation including the specific factors in mitigation of Penal Code section 1170(b)(6); and the factors that would motivate a "reasonable judge" in the exercise of their discretion. The court should not consider whether the defendant has simply pled guilty, factors related to controlling the court's calendar, or antipathy toward the statutory scheme. (See People v. Romero (1996) 13 Cal.4th 947; People v. Dent (1995) 38 Cal.App.4th 1726; People v. Kessel (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 322; People v. Orin (1975) 13 Cal.3d 937.)

Rule 4.421. Circumstances in aggravation

Circumstances in aggravation include factors relating to the crime and factors relating to the defendant.

$$(a)-(c)$$

Advisory Committee Comment

Circumstances in aggravation may justify imposition of the middle or upper of three possible terms of imprisonment. (Section 1170(b).)

The list of circumstances in aggravation includes some facts that, if charged and found, may be used to enhance the sentence.

Courts may not impose a sentence greater than the middle term except when aggravating factors justifying the imposition of the upper term have been stipulated to by the defendant or found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by the jury or the judge in a court trial. These requirements do not apply to consideration of aggravating factors for the lower or middle term. If the court finds that any of the factors listed in section 1170(b)(6)(A–C) were a contributing factor to the commission of the offense, the court must impose the lower term (see rule 4.420(e)) unless the court finds that the aggravating factors outweigh the mitigating factors to such a degree that imposing the lower term would be contrary to the interests of justice. In this instance, since the court is not addressing the imposition of the upper term, the court may consider factors in aggravation that have not been stipulated to by the defendant or found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by the jury or the judge in a court trial.

In determining whether to impose the upper term for a criminal offense, the court may consider as an aggravating factor that a defendant has suffered one or more prior convictions, based on a certified record of conviction. This exception may not be used to select the upper term of an enhancement.

This rule does not deal with the dual use of the facts; the statutory prohibition against dual use is included, in part, in the comment to rule 4.420.

Conversely, such facts as infliction of bodily harm, being armed with or using a weapon, and a taking or loss of great value may be circumstances in aggravation even if not meeting the statutory definitions for enhancements or charged as an enhancement.

Facts concerning the defendant's prior record and personal history may be considered. By providing that the defendant's prior record and simultaneous convictions of other offenses may not be used both for enhancement and in aggravation, section 1170(b) indicates that these and other facts extrinsic to the commission of the crime may be considered in aggravation in appropriate cases.

Refusal to consider the personal characteristics of the defendant in imposing sentence may raise serious constitutional questions. The California Supreme Court has held that sentencing decisions must take into account "the nature of the offense and/or the offender, with particular regard to the degree of danger both present to society." (In re Rodriguez (1975) 14 Cal.3d 639, 654, quoting In re Lynch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 410, 425.) In Rodriguez the court released petitioner from further incarceration because "it appears that neither the circumstances of his offense nor his personal characteristics establish a danger to society sufficient to justify such a prolonged period of imprisonment." (Id. at p. 655, fn. omitted, italics added.) "For the determination of sentences, justice generally requires . . . that there be taken into account the circumstances of the offense together with the character and propensities of the offender." (Pennsylvania ex rel. Sullivan v. Ashe (1937) 302 U.S. 51, 55, quoted with approval in Gregg v. Georgia (1976) 428 U.S. 153, 189.)

Former subdivision (a)(4), concerning multiple victims, was deleted to avoid confusion. Some of the cases that had relied on that circumstance in aggravation were reversed on appeal because there was only a single victim in a particular count.

Old age or youth of the victim may be circumstance in aggravation; see section 1170.85(b). Other statutory eircumstances factors in aggravation are listed, for example, in sections 422.76, 1170.7, 1170.7, 1170.8, and 1170.85, and may be considered to impose the upper term if stipulated to by

1 the defendant or found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by a jury or the judge in a court 2 trial. 3 4 Rule 4.423. Advisory Committee Comment

Multiple enhancements for prior convictions under subdivision (c)(1)(B) may be imposed if the prior convictions have been brought and tried separately. (Pen. Code, § 422.75(d).)

In order to impose the upper term based on section 422.75, the fact of the enhancement pursuant to sections 422.55 or 422.6 must be stipulated to by the defendant or found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by the jury or the judge in a court trial.

Any enhancement alleged pursuant to this section may be dismissed pursuant to section 1385(c).

Rule 4.428. Factors affecting imposition of enhancements

(a) Enhancements punishable by one of three terms

If an enhancement is punishable by one of three terms, the court must, in its sound discretion, order imposition of a sentence not to exceed the middle term, unless there are circumstances in aggravation that justify the imposition of a term of imprisonment exceeding the middle term, and the facts underlying those circumstances have been stipulated to by the defendant, or have been found true beyond a reasonable doubt at trial by the jury or by the judge in a court trial.

The its discretion, impose the term that best serves the interest of justice and state the reasons for its sentence choice on the record at the time of sentencing. In exercising its discretion in selecting the appropriate term, the court may consider factors in mitigation and aggravation as described in these rules or any other factor authorized by rule 4.408.

(b) Striking or dismissing enhancements under section 1385

If the court has discretion under section 1385(a) to strike an enhancement in the interests of justice, the court also has the authority to strike the punishment for the enhancement under section 1385(eb). In determining whether to strike the entire enhancement or only the punishment for the enhancement, the court may consider the effect that striking the enhancement would have on the status of the crime as a strike, the accurate reflection of the defendant's criminal conduct on his or her record, the effect it may have on the award of custody credits, and any other relevant consideration.

(c) Dismissing enhancements under section 1385(c)

1	(1)	The court shall exercise the discretion to dismiss an enhancement if it is in
2 3			furtherance of justice to do so, unless the dismissal is prohibited by
3		1111112	ative statute.
5	(2)	In ex	xercising its discretion under section 1385(c), the court must consider and
6	(2)		rd great weight to evidence offered by the defendant to prove that any of
7			mitigating circumstances in section 1385(c) are present.
8		tire i	milgaring encumerations in section 1303(e) are present.
9		(A)	Proof of the presence of one or more of these circumstances weighs
10		(11)	greatly in favor of dismissing the enhancement, unless the court finds
11			that dismissal of the enhancement would endanger public safety.
12
13		(B)	The circumstances listed in 1385(c) are not exclusive.
14
15		(C)	"Endanger public safety" means there is a likelihood that the dismissal
16		~~	of the enhancement would result in physical injury or other serious
17			danger to others.
19	(3)	If the	e court dismisses the enhancement pursuant to 1385(c), then both the
20		enha	incement and its punishment must be dismissed.

24	Case law su	ıggests	that in determining the "furtherance of justice" the court should consider the
25	constitution	al righ	its of the defendant and the interests of society represented by the people; the
26	defendant's	backg	ground and prospects, including the presence or absence of a record; the nature
27	and circums	stances	s of the crime and the defendant's level of involvement; the factors in
28	aggravation	and m	nitigation including the specific factors in mitigation of section 1385(c); and the
29	factors that	would	motivate a "reasonable judge" in the exercise of their discretion. The court
30	should not	conside	er whether the defendant has simply pled guilty, factors related to controlling

1 2 Rule 4.437. Statements in aggravation and mitigation 3 4 (a)-(e) * * * 5 6 Advisory Committee Comment 7 8 Section 1170(b)(4) states in part: 9 "At least four days prior to the time set for imposition of judgment, either party or the victim, or 10 11 the family of the victim if the victim is deceased, may submit a statement in aggravation or 12 mitigation to dispute facts in the record or the probation officer's report, or to present additional 13 facts." 14 15 This provision means that the statement is a document giving notice of intention to dispute 16 evidence in the record or the probation officer's report, or to present additional facts. 17 18 The statement itself cannot be the medium for presenting new evidence, or for rebutting 19 competent evidence already presented, because the statement is a unilateral presentation by one 20 party or counsel that will not necessarily have any indicia of reliability. To allow its factual 21 assertions to be considered in the absence of corroborating evidence would, therefore, constitute a 22 denial of due process of law in violation of the United States (14th Amend.) and California (art. I, 23 § 7) Constitutions. 24 25 The requirement that the statement include notice of intention to rely on new evidence will 26 enhance fairness to both sides by avoiding surprise and helping to ensure that the time limit on 27 pronouncing sentence is met. This notice may include either party's intention to provide evidence 28 to prove or contest the existence of a factor in mitigation that would require imposition of the low 29 term for the underlying offense or dismissal of an enhancement. 30 Rule 4.447. Sentencing of enhancements 31 32 33 Enhancements resulting in unlawful sentences (a) 34 35 Except pursuant to section 1385(c), Aa court may not strike or dismiss an 36 enhancement solely because imposition of the term is prohibited by law or exceeds 37 limitations on the imposition of multiple enhancements. Instead, the court must: 38 39 Impose a sentence for the aggregate term of imprisonment computed without (1) 40 reference to those prohibitions or limitations; and 41

(2) Stay execution of the part of the term that is prohibited or exceeds the applicable limitation. The stay will become permanent once the defendant finishes serving the part of the sentence that has not been stayed.

(b) Multiple enhancements

Notwithstanding section 1385(c), I a defendant is convicted of multiple enhancements of the same type, the court must either sentence each enhancement or, if authorized, strike the enhancement or its punishment. While the court may strike an enhancement, the court may not stay an enhancement except as provided in (a) or as authorized by section 654.

Advisory Committee Comment

 Subdivision (a). Statutory restrictions may prohibit or limit the imposition of an enhancement in certain situations. (See, for example, sections 186.22(b)(1), 667(a)(2), 667.61(f), 1170.1(f) and (g), 12022.53(e)(2) and (f), and Vehicle Code section 23558.)

Section 1385(c) requires that in the furtherance of justice certain enhancements be dismissed unless dismissal is prohibited by any initiative statute.

Present practice of staying execution is followed to avoid violating a statutory prohibition or exceeding a statutory limitation, while preserving the possibility of imposition of the stayed portion should a reversal on appeal reduce the unstayed portion of the sentence. (See People v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal.4th 1118, 1129–1130; People v. Niles (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 749, 756.)

Only the portion of a sentence or component thereof that exceeds a limitation is prohibited, and this rule provides a procedure for that situation. This rule applies to both determinate and indeterminate terms.

Subdivision (b). A court may stay an enhancement if section 654 applies. (See People v. Bradley (1998) 64 Cal.App.4th 386; People v. Haykel (2002) 96 Cal.App.4th 146, 152.)

Rule 4.453. Commitments to nonpenal institutions

When a defendant is convicted of a crime for which sentence could be imposed under Penal Code section 1170 and the court orders that he or she be committed to the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, Division of Juvenile Justice under Welfare and Institutions Code section 1731.5, the order of commitment must specify the term of imprisonment to which the defendant would have been sentenced. The term is determined as provided by Penal Code sections 1170 and 1170.1 and these rules, as though a sentence of imprisonment were to be imposed.

Advisory Committee Comment Commitments to the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, Division of Juvenile Justice (formerly Youth Authority) cannot exceed the maximum possible incarceration in an adult institution for the same crime. (See People v. Olivas (1976) 17 Cal.3d 236.) Under the indeterminate sentencing law, the receiving institution knew, as a matter of law from the record of the conviction, the maximum potential period of imprisonment for the crime of which the defendant was convicted. Under the Uniform Determinate Sentencing Act, the court's discretion as to length of term leaves doubt as to the maximum term when only the record of convictions is present.
